

Jim Littlefield-Dalmares

About Jim

Jim Littlefield-Dalmares believes worlds are created from the lens in which we choose to see them. And he chooses (and encourages others to choose) to see each person not by what holds them back, but rather their abilities!

As a marketing and fundraising professional, he helped change lives working for his local United Way, as well as a national environmental charity. And, for over a decade, he advocated for children with special needs as head of marketing and fundraising for the Kids Center for Pediatric Therapies in Louisville, Kentucky. As the founder of Seeing Ability, Jim hosts a podcast, has authored a book, and leads the Seeing Ability Foundation which offers support to families with special needs children.

Suggested Interview Topics

-  The Power of Community in Parenting Children with Unique Abilities
-  Building Resilient Families in the Face of Adversity
-  Understanding Experiences of Those We Care For
-  Seeing the Abilities in Everyone

Connect

seeingabilitypodcast

seeingabilitypodcast

/jimld

What He Offers Podcast Hosts

-  Jim's been using storytelling to change lives for over 30 years, and he brings this approach to every speaking engagements and interview.
-  As a podcast host, he understands your unique needs and those of their listeners.
-  He's a parent with a child of unique abilities himself, so he understands your listeners because, quite frankly, he's your target audience.

Suggested Interview Questions

-  What was the motivation behind writing your book, forming your foundation and starting your podcast?
-  Having interviewed over 100 people for your book, what was the top takeaway you gleaned that would help families with children navigating a unique difference?
-  How can parents of children with unique abilities create community even when they feel isolated at times?