

Jim Littlefield-Dalmares

Author | Speaker | Podcast Host

Jim Littlefield-Dalmares believes worlds are created from the lens in which we choose to see them. And he chooses (and encourages others to choose) to see each person not by what holds them back, but rather their abilities!

As a marketing and fundraising professional, he helped change lives working for his local United Way, as well as a national environmental charity.

And, for over a decade, he advocated for children with special needs as head of marketing and fundraising for the Kids Center for Pediatric Therapies in Louisville, Kentucky.

As the founder of Seeing Ability, Jim hosts a podcast, has authored a book, and leads the Seeing Ability Foundation which offers support to families with special needs children.

Seeing disAbility

More Than a Book... It's a Lifeline.

A must-have for parents who unexpectedly find themselves on the challenging journey of raising a child with disabilities.

Through the lens of his own personal experience with his daughter Sophia, born prematurely with neurological issues, and the collective wisdom of countless other parents who have navigated this path, Jim Littlefield-Dalmares offers an invaluable roadmap filled with candid storytelling, practical advice, emotional support, and unwavering encouragement.

This book is not just a guide; it's a companion. It's a friend who walks beside you, reminding you that you are not alone and that your child's potential is limitless. Jim shares insights on navigating family dynamics, advocating for your child's rights, and fostering resilience in both yourself and your child.

Seeing Ability is a beacon of light for parents who may feel lost, offering hope, inspiration, and the tools needed to embrace this unexpected path with courage and love. It is a celebration of the extraordinary strength and resilience of parents and children alike.

"This book will educate, inspire, and encourage our villages. We are not alone."

—Sonia Johnson, Executive Director,
Options for Individuals

Bring Jim to Your Community

With decades experience as a nonprofit leader, meeting facilitator, and marketing executive, Jim empowers communities affected by disability nationwide. His warm, approachable style fosters connection and engagement, resonating deeply with his audience.

Some of Jim's most requested speaking topics include:

Building Your Village

Cultivating strong, supportive communities around families with special needs.

Walking in Your Patient's Shoes

Understanding the lived experiences of those we serve and care for.

Setting the Bar for Your Child

Encouraging high expectations and aspirations for children with disabilities.

